

Aandahl and Hoffman Named Top Mathematics Teachers

Two veteran DPS mathematics teachers, George Washington High's Vaughan Aandahl and Irwin Hoffman, were selected from among Colorado mathematics teachers to represent the state in competition for the first Presidential Awards for Excellence in Teaching, sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Aandahl and Hoffman, who have been with the DPS for 25 and 27 years, respectively, received congratulations from Governor Richard D. Lamm and a certificate from the State Board of Education on Thursday, September 15. The Denver winners were selected from 14 nominations for the Colorado mathematics awards.

Denver math teachers Hoffman and Aandahl receive congratulations from Governor Richard Lamm.